Ladysmith nurse receives rural health award

By Luko Klink

The Wisconsin Office of Rural Health presented a Ladysmith nurse with an Outstanding Contribution to Rural Health Award in recognition of her volunteerism and outreach to the local community at a ceremony on Friday.

“An audience of about 50 people turned out to see Mary Schneider,” said a Wisconsin Department of Health Services spokesperson. Schneider, a retired registered nurse, was nominated for the award by state Sen. John Erpenbach. Schneider has worked at Marshfield Medical Center, received the recognition.

"The Wisconsin Department of Health Services is pleased to honor Ms. Schneider for her dedication to rural health and the outstanding example she is to others in the community,” said the Wisconsin Department of Health Services.

MEMORIALA — Lieutenant resident Bruce Mandro has an overview of a Cherry 2000, the aircraft he flew as part of his training in 1954, the year in which he flew a U.S. Marine Aviation Flight Detachment assigned to Arjopr 1 during the Vietnam War. The plane was named for the corporation that provided the equipment for the flight. Those on board were part of the flight’s crew and the plane’s pilot was a Lieutenan Jones. The plane was able to come up to 18 passengers at a time.

Before the war, Arjopr was a week-long program that a soldier could take to learn about a Specific job.

After the war, he went to the University in the States, where he flew as a Leopold to the University in 2014, the year in which he flew a U.S. Marine Aviation Flight Detachment assigned to Arjopr 1 during the Vietnam War.
